

PREPARING FOR THE ENCAMPMENT OF THE VETERANS OF THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

The upper photo shows how the old campaigners will be quartered. Though each tent is large enough for twelve, eight men only will be assigned to each. Arrangements are being made to take care of those who may become ill during the encampment, the lower photo showing the hospital of the department of health of the state of Pennsylvania.

bread a day, were tested and found to be satisfactory.

Makes Trip Across Continent.

One of the latest arrivals is Rev. W. F. Hubbard of Los Angeles, Cal., who was severely wounded at the battle of Gettysburg, and who made the trip across the continent to attend the anniversary. One of his missions in coming, he said, was to find and express his appreciation to the nurse who, with other ladies of the town, did so much after the battle to alleviate his suffering and that of his wounded comrades.

F. A. Easton, 6th New York Cavalry, arrived yesterday to complete arrangements for his regimental reunion, which will be held July 1 on the field of the first day's fight. Easton is endeavoring to locate a number of Gettysburg women who, as school children, scattered flowers in the paths of Buford's cavalry and sang patriotic songs as they entered the town, June 30, 1863.

A dozen or more of them are said to be still living and if they can be found will be asked to sing the same songs again at the reunion.

Gathering from north and south several hundred civil war veterans arrived here yesterday, coming early, they said, "in order to avoid the great rains of the early part of next week." Mixing with the blue uniforms were some in gray, and the men from the south received a hearty greeting with their comrades of gray topped by campaign hats. The southerners soon became the central figure on the streets, and scarcely a person they passed failed to stop and ask the privilege of a handshake. Warmer than all others was the welcome extended them by the men in the blue of the Union veterans' organizations, many of whom are here for the opening of the state encampment today.

The historic old Adams county courthouse last night witnessed a repetition of the wartime campfire, with its stirring patriotic songs of the days of '61-'65, and many speeches, in which reminiscences of days gone by were mingled with the gentle and plans for the observance of the coming week. Commander-in-Chief Alfred Biers of Bridgeport, Conn., one of the first arrivals for the battle anniversary celebration, was one of the speakers.

Everything in Readiness.

Final arrangements at the big camp were completed. Practically everything is in readiness to receive the arrivals Sunday, and many veterans visited the place inspecting the tents and furnishings together with the arrangements for mess and sanitation.

The 1st Squadron, 15th United States Cavalry, Maj. Rhodes commanding, arrived during the night, and heavy down-pour of rain after having been on the march from Fort Myer since Monday. The cavalry will be in the trenches, guarding the battlefields, regulating traffic there and guarding the monuments from vandals.

Californians on the Way.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 27.—Sixty California civil war veterans left for Gettysburg today in a special train. As the fifteen-thousand-dollar state appropriation to pay the transportation expenses of the veterans was depleted because of a technical flaw, many of those going have had their way paid by popular subscription in their home towns.

Warned to Expect Hardships.

Although there will be a bed and three meals a day in the veterans' camp at Gettysburg for every civil war veteran from Washington who has registered with Col. Thomas S. Hopkins, representing the district of Columbia on the Gettysburg commission, it is becoming more and more evident that a veteran who endeavors to spend any time at the celebration without an identification card from the proper authority will risk inconvenience and possible danger.

Up until a late hour today Col. Hopkins had not heard from Secretary of War Garrison that $5,000 had been appropriated by the state of Pennsylvania for the accommodation of extra veterans at the reunion camp. Until the War Department learns officially that this money has been appropriated, assignments of extra cots and places at the dining tables cannot be made.

Gettysburg is a small town. There will be a hundred thousand people there, by a conservative estimate. It will presumably be hot and meals and fit drinking water may be scarce. Col. Hopkins has issued a warning to veterans not "taking chances." He advises veterans not to "take chances" in the possession of the train unless in the possession of a valid identification card. There will be delays in the train service. As an illustration he mentions that the Pennsylvania railroad will be unable to send a Sunday morning special to the Western Maryland railroad because the latter road has already scheduled forty-five trains over the single track to Gettysburg that day.

Anticipates Fatiguing Trip.

"Undoubtedly trains will be delayed in getting to Gettysburg," said Col. Hopkins, "and many of them will be behind the schedule. The trip will be fatiguing therefore, especially if the weather is hot."

"The accommodations in camp consist of a cot with nine in a tent, with three meals a day. Sleeping in a tent on a cot will be a trying experience to a great many comrades who, while at home, do not always sleep well in good beds in a quiet room with familiar surroundings."

Campground Nearly 200 Acres.

"The campground covers between 150 and 200 acres, and the distances to the considerable. It must be remembered that this line of battle was about five miles in length. To be sure, there are trolley lines over the whole battlefield, but with 100,000 or 150,000 people present they will not be of much use. Every comrade who was in the battle will naturally want to stand on the spot where his regiment or battery fought. This, in most cases, will entail considerable walking and fatigue. Those who did not participate in the battle will feel like making a supreme effort to visit all the lines of the three days' fighting. This would tax the strength of a young man. Every hour of the day will be full of excitement, which will be more or less trying. I believe I should emphasize the fact that no veteran should attend the celebration unless he is fairly well and strong."

Should Carry Lunch Along.

"It is suggested that every comrade take with him a lunch, as possible delays may make it desirable. He should also take with him an umbrella or raincoat, and a pair of rubber overshoes. If it should rain the campgrounds will likely be muddy. He should also carry with him a large fund of patience, forbearance and good nature."

Mr. Hopkins begs that if any comrade who has received an identification card from him has changed his mind and decided not to go that such comrade report immediately to Mr. Hopkins' office the identification card, in order that he may give it to some comrade whose name is on the waiting list.

ADMITTS WORKING OLD TRICK.

Samuel Scott, Alias James Stewart, Held for Grand Jury.

Samuel Scott, alias James Stewart, confessed in the Police Court today to trying the old "pennyweighting" trick on a 7th street jewelry firm. He was held for the action of the grand jury, the charge of second offense larceny having been made in the information against him. According to the police records, Scott, under the name of Stewart, was sentenced to a year in April, 1912, after being convicted of stealing some clothing from a local department store.

According to the testimony of some of the clerks in the jewelry store, Scott came in a few days ago and asked to look at a certain kind of ring. He was shown a case containing a number of them, and examined them closely. It is charged, and admitted by the prisoner, that he had a cheap ring of the same sort hidden in his hand, and managed to exchange the two.

The trick was discovered before he left the store, however, and Scott ran out, pursued by one of the clerks. Policeman Jacob Mertz was passing by and headed off Scott, who ran into a blind alley and was arrested.

JAMES COOPER FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

Accused Man to Answer for the Death of Matilda Maynard.

Attracted to house No. 1013 3d street southwest by the sound of a pistol shot last night about 6:30 o'clock, Policeman J. M. Horton of the fourth precinct met James Cooper, colored, a laborer at the Center market, coming out the front door. Cooper was detained until the policeman found that Matilda Maynard, colored, also an occupant of the house, had been shot in the head.

Cooper was taken to the fourth precinct police station and held for investigation until shortly after 8 o'clock, when the woman died at Emergency Hospital, and he then was charged with murder. Cooper and Matilda, the police say, who had been living in the 3d street house, had frequent quarrels.

Supper Not Ready, He Says.

The prisoner, it is alleged, charged that Matilda did not have his supper ready when he reached home from work last night and a quarrel ensued. They were the only persons in the house when the shot was fired and the bullet entered the back of the woman's head.

Discussing the shooting with the police, Cooper stated that Matilda held the pistol in her hand when he was discharged. She was fooling with the weapon, he stated, and when he took hold of her to prevent her from doing so, she was discharged, the bullet entering the back of her head.

This morning Cooper appeared at the morgue and attended the inquest conducted by Coroner Nevitt. Witnesses summoned by the police told what they knew of Cooper, the woman and the shooting, and Cooper was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

MEXICAN REBELS MOVING.

Main Chihuahua Column Reported Nearing Boundary for Supplies.

EL PASO, Tex., June 27.—An employee of the Mexico Northwestern railway brought the news late last night that Gen. Francisco Villa, at the head of the main Chihuahua column of rebels, had left the railroad at Guzman Wednesday night in a northerly direction.

Other unconfirmed reports say that Villa is moving nearer the international boundary with the double purpose of keeping his men and animals supplied with water and approaching Juarez through the mountains west of that town.

Robert Leon Satterfield of Woodstock, Md., and Miss Jessie W. Branner of Shenandoah Junction, W. Va., were married Wednesday.
